

Parlour Bells debuted on 100.7 FM WZLX on Boston Emissions with Anngelle Wood in 2010. The band's debut EP Heart Beatings and ensuing live performances earned the band a slot in the 2012 Rock N' Roll Rumble. Later that year, Parlour Bells was invited to perform at the historic sendoff concert for beloved alternative rock station 101.7FM WFNX at Paradise Rock Club.

In The Boston Phoenix, Michael Marotta described 2013's Thank God for the Night EP as "a bedtime story for adults who never go to bed." The EP features Dana Colley of Morphine on the track "You Don't Wear That Dress, The Dress Wears You."

In 2015, at the invitation of Live Nation, Parlour Bells opened for Culture Club at the Rockland Trust Bank Pavilion in Boston's Seaport.

Parlour Bells released their first full length album Waylaid in the Melée in 2018. Victor Infante of The Worcester Telegram and Gazette named Waylaid in the Melée as one of his Top 10 Albums of 2018.

As the band prepares to enter their 10th year performing, Parlour Bells is currently writing songs for their next release.
